Link Between McCormick & Dexter + Chaney Software Produces Integrated IT System For Contractors

McCormick Systems & Dexter + Chaney have combined to provide electrical and systems contractors with integrated accounting/estimating software.

McCormick's electrical estimating software (Win 3000, Win 6000, Win 8000 and Win 12000 and additional products) and automated building systems products (ABS 3000, ABS 6000, ABS 8000 to ABS 12000 and more) are fully integrated with Forefront Construction Management Software for contractors from Dexter + Chaney.

What this means: The link between the Dexter + Chaney and McCormick software allows contractors who use software from the two companies to easily set up budgets for projects (in Forefront) without additional keystrokes.

Integrating data is simple to accomplish. Users can transfer critical information from McCormick's software to Forefront's Job Cost module.

"Contractors need to save time, effort – and money – by using integrated IT systems," said John Chaney Dexter + Chaney's president and co-founder. "With the integration between our company and McCormick, datacom, electrical, and other systems contractors can now make an 'off the shelf' purchase of just such a system."

Added Todd McCormick, president of McCormick Systems: "Our interface with Forefront offers electrical and systems contractors who use the Dexter + Chaney software more options. Our company's entire focus is, has been, and will be on contractor productivity – and this is an important link in that chain."
